TOO MUCH TO DO IN JUST ONE DAY!

Choose your own adventure to spice up your Gilroy getaway.

1 FAMILY FUN

Day One: There really is such a thing as fun for the whole family, and you'll find it at the magical Gilroy Gardens Family Theme Park. Spend the day enjoying the rides, marveling at the amazing Circus Trees, and cooling off at the refreshing Water Oasis. Afterward, enjoy classic burgers and shakes at Café 152 Burger Company and go bowling at downtown's historic Gilroy Bowl.

Day Two: Have breakfast at the kid-friendly Black Bear Diner and then head down to Casa de Fruta, where you can ride on the carousel and miniature train, pan for gold in the miner's sluice, and shop for fresh produce, fine wines, and sweet treats. In the afternoon, take a hike through history at Chitactac-Adams Heritage Park, or find great deals for the whole family at Gilroy Premium Outlets.

2 SHOP 'TIL YOU DROP

Day One: If you love to shop, Gilroy is the place to go! Gilroy Premium Outlets is one of Northern California's largest outlet centers, where you'll find extraordinary savings of 25-65% on more than 145 exceptional brands. Start your trip at the Gilroy Welcome Center and pick up special discount coupons and some fun Gilroy souvenirs.

Day Two: Plan to spend a leisurely morning strolling through Historic Downtown Gilroy, which has several charming antique shops as well as unique stores like Amoretto Boutique, Nimble Thimble, and Garlic City Mercantile. If you're still not shopped out, you can find more big-name stores like Barnes & Noble, Pier 1, Target, Kohl's and Best Buy out at the Pacheco Pass Center and Gilroy Crossing shopping centers.

3 FOLLOW THE WINE TRAIL

Day One: Download a Wine Trail Map from visitgilroy.com to plan your own tasting adventure at over 25 different Santa Clara Valley wineries in and around Gilroy. Pick up some deli sandwiches so you can enjoy a picnic lunch along the way. If you have just a few hours, we suggest heading out to Hecker Pass Highway for stops at Solis Winery, Fortino Winery, and Sarah's Vineyard. Have dinner downtown at The Milias Restaurant, where gourmet entrées are expertly paired with local wines.

Day Two: So many wineries, so little time! Continue your wine tour with stops at some of the other local wineries. Kirigin Cellars has a very historic feel and also hosts cricket matches and dog races on their expansive grassy fields. Clos La Chance has drop-dead gorgeous views, while Satori Cellars has bocce courts and a fun, neighborhood feeling.

4 GARLIC, GARLIC, GARLIC

Day One: Of course, the ultimate garlic getaway requires you to be here for the Gilroy Garlic Festival in July. But if you're in town any other time of the year, go downtown and shop for unique garlic gifts at Garlic City Mercantile, and be sure to try the garlic soup (and garlic ice cream!) at Garlic City Café. Then head out to Garlic World and Garlic Shoppe to find garlic in every form plus other gourmet goodies. Have dinner at Mama Mia's, which has Garlic Festival favorite dishes on the menu all year long. Just don't forget to bring your breath mints!

Day Two: Go to Gilroy Gardens Family Theme Park, where you can meet Gil and Roy, the park's garlic bulb mascots, and take a spin on the Garlic Twirl ride. On your way out of town, drive by the Olam Spices and Vegetables garlic processing plant on Pacheco Pass Highway and get a whiff of that distinctive Gilroy aroma!

GARLIC FEST IS THE BEST

Food—glorious food—is the cornerstone for America's most renowned small town chow-down

Foodies, families, and festival adventurers come in droves to the annual Gilroy Garlic Festival, the darling of all American food celebrations. Unfolding every year on the last full weekend in July, it's an iconic combination of entertainment, community volunteerism, and mouth-watering, gotta-have-that-recipe food, all bathed in the mysterious power of the pungent bulb.

At the heart of the Gilroy Garlic Festival is the massive outdoor kitchen known as Gourmet Alley. To make the famous calamari, muscular guys (and gals) maneuver oversized skillets over hot fires and then douse the sizzling seafood in white wine. Flames shoot to the rafters and spectators cheer.

Other Festival favorites include garlic scampi, pasta con pesto, pepper steak sandwiches, sausage sandwiches, and stuffed mushrooms. And don't forget the garlic bread and those world-famous Gilroy garlic fries!

One thing some visitors don't realize is that the Gilroy Garlic Festival is driven by volunteers—more than 4,000 of them—who do everything from chopping basil to pulling beer taps. After the bills are paid, every volunteer earns an hourly "wage" that goes to their selected organization. Since the Festival was founded in 1979, more than $11.2 million has been donated back to numerous school groups, youth sports teams, and non-profit organizations in the community.

GOTTA GET SOME GARLIC

Can't make it to Gilroy in July for the Garlic Festival? Don't despair. There are plenty of places to find garlic here all year long!

GARLIC WORLD

4800 Monterey Highway
(just off northbound side of US 101)
garlicworld.com • 800.537.6122

Inside the ginormous Garlic World, there are rows and rows of long, full shelves stuffed with gourmet goodies, including picture-perfect fresh garlic bulbs and braids and products of all shapes and sizes from Gilroy's world-famous Christopher Ranch. There's fresh roasted garlic, organic chopped ginger, minced or chopped garlic in oil, pesto, and dozens more items. You'll also find farm-fresh produce, hot sauces, a gourmet olive tasting bar, dried sliced garlic, salad dressings, and a wide selection of wines, nuts and sweet snack treats.

THE GARLIC SHOPPE

4350 Monterey Highway
(alongside Rapazzini Winery)
garlicdude.com • 888.328.4275

You haven't really lived until you've tried spicy pickled garlic. According to The Garlic Shoppe co-owner Charlie Larson, that's the store's very best seller. After that? Garlic-stuffed olives—fabulous for a Gilroy martini—and Garlic Dude Dust, a low-salt seasoning that can sprinkle flavor into anything from skirt steak to butternut squash. Another longtime favorite is "Mama Rap's" garlic jelly, which can be served over cream cheese, used as a glaze on chicken or ham, or enjoyed as a delicious dip for egg rolls or wontons.

GARLIC CITY MERCANTILE

7550 Monterey St.
garliccitymercantile.com
408.767.2434

Located in the heart of Historic Downtown Gilroy, the Garlic City Mercantile features a wide assortment of intriguing, unique, only-in-Gilroy gifts for young and old. Cute-as-a-button baby booties sewn from a garlic bulb pattern. Garlic bulb wine stoppers, garlic-stamped trivets, and garlic keepers. Locally-made gourmet products like Andy's Rub and Kam's Chili Sauce and HazMat Hot Sauce, a delectable fire-breathing blend that starts with apricots and includes garlic, bell peppers, carrots and lemon. The list goes on—and that keeps the customers coming back for more!

TOP 5 DON'T-MISS GARLIC RESTAURANTS

Garlic is always on the menu here in Gilroy!

1. MAMA MIA'S

MAGICAL GILROY GARDENS

Lush gardens, soothing waterfalls, rides and water fun make this an oasis for youngsters and families

The water is clear, the landscape is soothing, and the joy is palpable at founder Michael Bonfante's magical creation, Gilroy Gardens Family Theme Park. You can see it in the children's faces as they skip across the heavy timber bridge into 26 lush acres sprinkled with family fun.

Whether it's the Mushroom Swing, which briskly twirls high above the grounds for the older children, the low-and-slow Bulgy the Goldfish adventure for toddlers, or the endless happy splish-splashing at Water Oasis, it's clear that Michael's intent—to create a place for families to come together for a delightful experience—has come to fruition.

There are more than 40 rides and attractions, but Gilroy Gardens is so much more than that. Gurgling water features and manicured gardens soothe the soul while guests move from one attraction to the next. It's a walk in the park—figuratively and literally. More than 10,000 trees, including redwoods, oaks, sycamores, and the amazing Circus Trees, stand as gentle sentinels, majestic reminders of nature's beauty.

A 30-year-old mother of three children under 5 years old summed it up best. When asked what she thinks is special about Gilroy Gardens, she replied, "What's not special about Gilroy Gardens?"

THE CIRCUS TREES

The Circus Trees are sculpted testaments to the patience and imagination of Axel Erlandson, who began to shape the trees in California's Central Valley in 1928. Axel opened the "Tree Circus" in Scotts Valley near Santa Cruz in 1946, but the fame eventually faded, and neglect settled in. Tree-loving Michael Bonfante, the founder of Gilroy Gardens, came to the rescue in 1984, carefully moving and transplanting the remaining trees at his new theme park.

Now 19 of these incredible trees – including the park's iconic "Basket Tree" as well as others like "Double Hearts," "Zig-Zag," and the "Four-Legged Giant" – can be found throughout the park and enjoyed by all.

GILROY: A SHOPPER'S PARADISE

Selection and bargains make the Gilroy Premium Outlets a destination for shoppers from around the world

Ready to score some serious bargains? Head straight to Gilroy Premium Outlets, one of Northern California's largest outlet centers, with over 145 top designer and brand name stores.

Start your shopping day at one of the center's longest-running success stories, the accessories-loaded Coach store, which is in the same shopping neighborhood as Kate Spade and the ever-popular Oakley Vault. After that, head to the iconic Abercrombie & Fitch. Stock up on shoes for the whole family at Nike, Adidas and Famous Footwear.

If you're looking for men's bargains, make your style choice at Hugo Boss or Polo Ralph Lauren for beautifully-cut shirts, suits and shoes. Find athletic wear at Under Armour, stacks of premium denim at True Religion and Levi's, and stylish boots to finish the look at Timberland.

Famished by now? Stop in for lunch at Applebee's or Erik's Delicafé, or grab a latté at Starbucks or a pretzel at Auntie Anne's for a quick snack.

After lunch, head to one of a dozen children's wear shops. Carters and Osh Kosh B'Gosh cater to the younger set, while Justice and Brothers offer cool graphic T's and the newest accessories for older kids. Teens can find the latest fashions for less at Forever 21, Charlotte Russe, PacSun, and Vans outlet stores.

For a sweet treat to finish off your day, stop by the Jelly Belly outlet store and enjoy free samples of their newest flavors!

FULL OF SURPRISES

Historic Downtown Gilroy is an eclectic mix of old and new

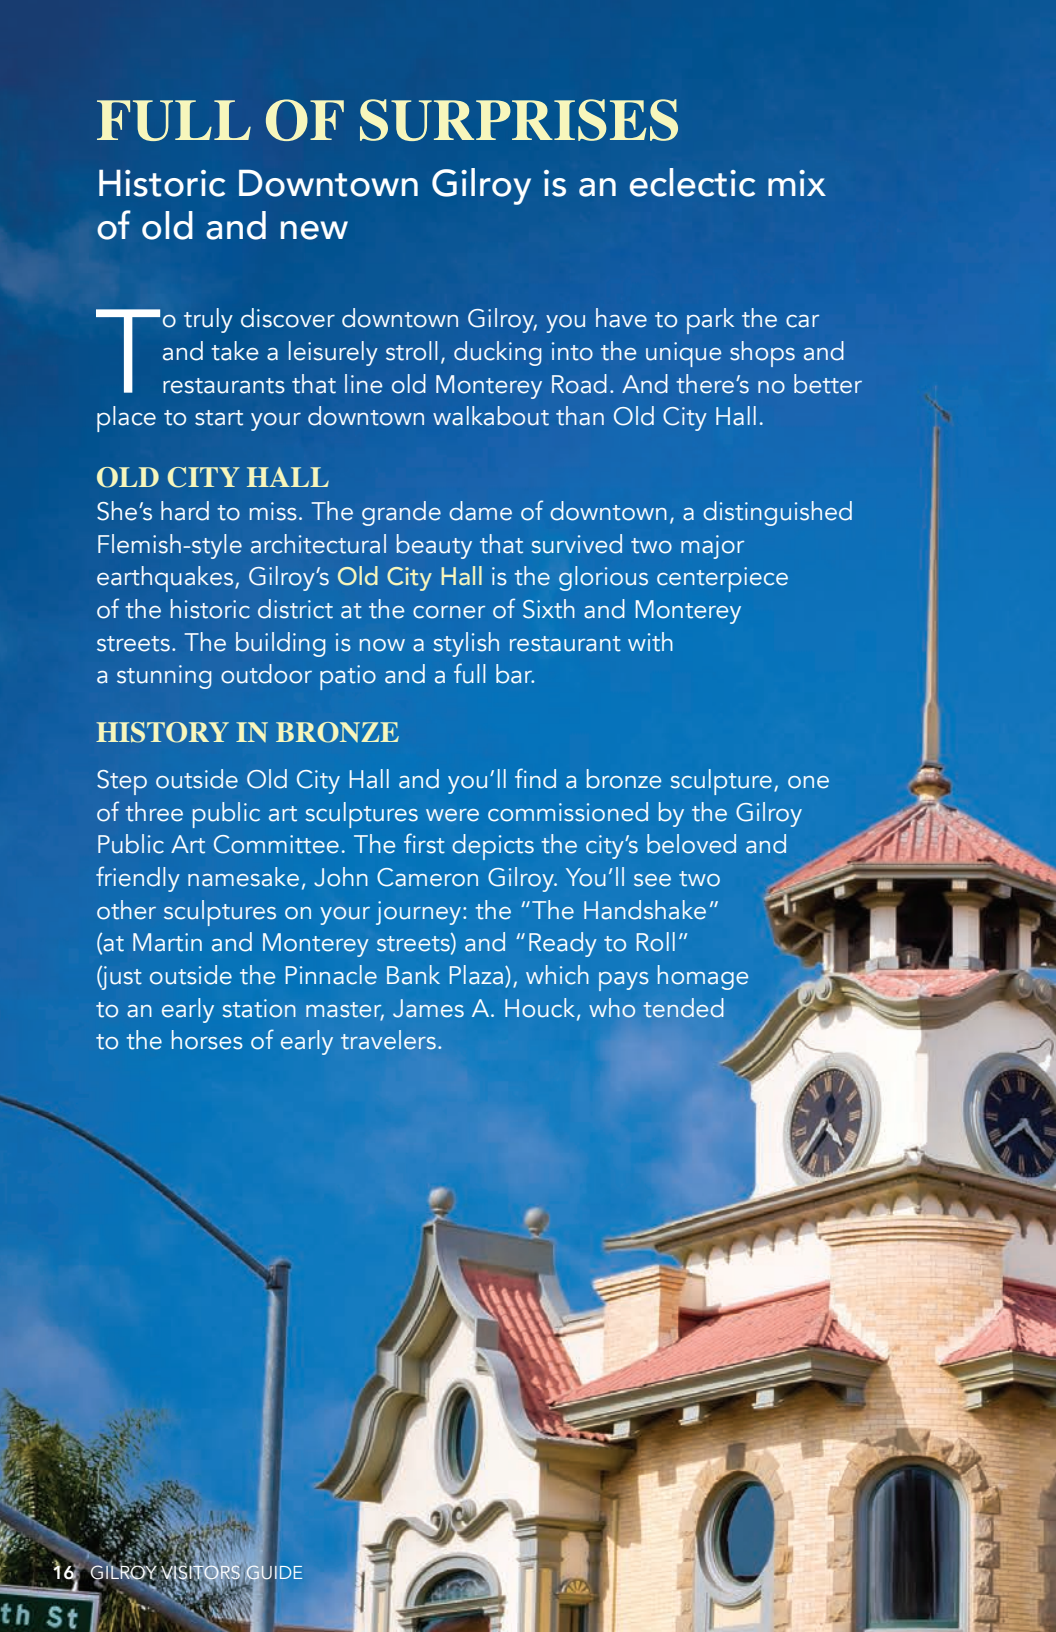
To truly discover downtown Gilroy, you have to park the car and take a leisurely stroll, ducking into the unique shops and restaurants that line old Monterey Road. And there's no better place to start your downtown walkabout than Old City Hall.

OLD CITY HALL

She's hard to miss. The grande dame of downtown, a distinguished Flemish-style architectural beauty that survived two major earthquakes, Gilroy's Old City Hall is the glorious centerpiece of the historic district at the corner of Sixth and Monterey streets. The building is now a stylish restaurant with a stunning outdoor patio and a full bar.

HISTORY IN BRONZE

Step outside Old City Hall and you'll find a bronze sculpture, one of three public art sculptures were commissioned by the Gilroy Public Art Committee. The first depicts the city's beloved and friendly namesake, John Cameron Gilroy. You'll see two other sculptures on your journey: the "The Handshake" (at Martin and Monterey streets) and "Ready to Roll" (just outside the Pinnacle Bank Plaza), which pays homage to an early station master, James A. Houck, who tended to the horses of early travelers.



THE GARLIC MURAL

Across Monterey from the coffee shop, you'll find an expansive and colorful hand-painted mural celebrating Gilroy, the "Garlic Capital of the World." The names on the garlic bins represent the families that first farmed garlic in the area. Look closely and see if you can spot the vampire in the corner being warded off by the stinking rose.

ANTIQUES

Take some time to browse through the treasures of yesteryear at Downtown Gilroy's charming antique stores, including Gilroy Antiques, Ashford's Heirlooms, Garbo's Antique Mall, and Collective Past.

RESTAURANTS

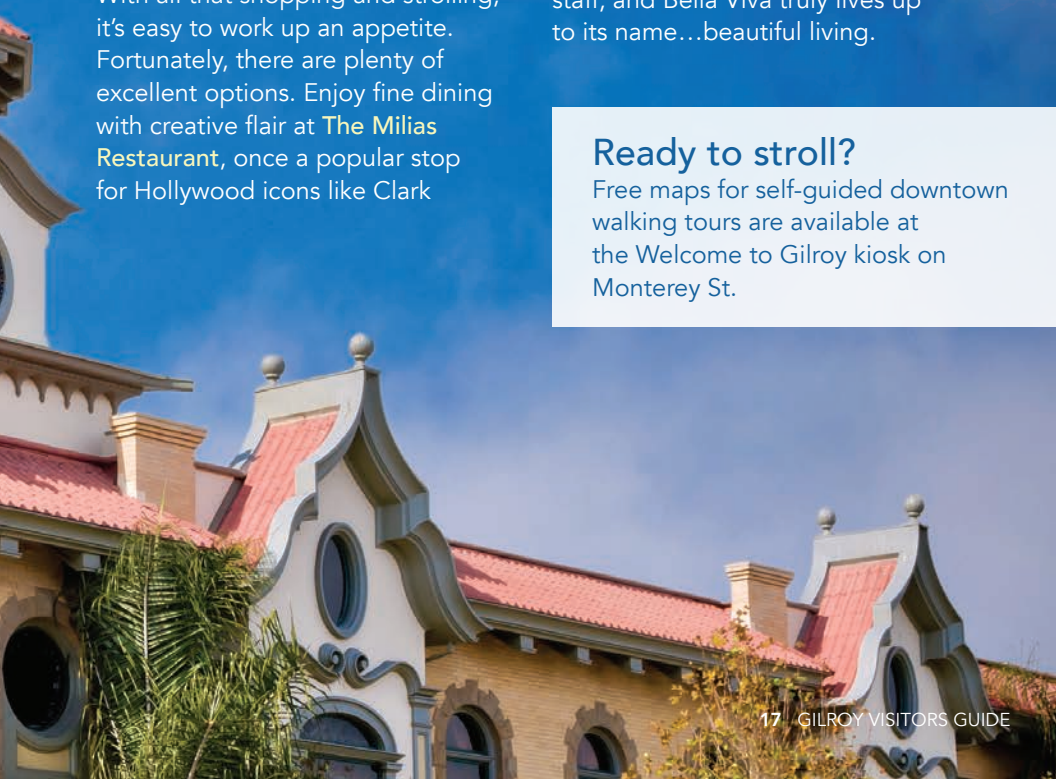
With all that shopping and strolling, it's easy to work up an appetite. Fortunately, there are plenty of excellent options. Enjoy fine dining with creative flair at The Milias Restaurant, once a popular stop for Hollywood icons like Clark Gable and John Wayne. Garlic City Café serves up creamy garlic soup and inventive cuisine. Carnitas Michoacan is famous for slow-roasted pork, and Cieleto Lindo features classic Mexican dishes. O.D.'s Kitchen is a popular spot for breakfast. Or for something really different, check out the eclectic menu at Scotty's Restaurant inside Gilroy Bowl, where you can order menudo, tempura udon, or a good old-fashioned milkshake.

WINE BAR

Bella Viva is a fine place to end your walking tour. The outdoor patio faces the city's main street, so it's good for people-watching. A cellar full of local wine selections is offered along with wines from around the globe. Add a bountiful beer selection and an attentive staff, and Bella Viva truly lives up to its name…beautiful living.

Ready to stroll?

Free maps for self-guided downtown walking tours are available at the Welcome to Gilroy kiosk on Monterey St.



SPIRITED DINING

Behind the historic horseshoe-shaped bar at The Milias Restaurant, there are plentiful premium spirits, like the prized Pappy Van Winkle reserve bourbon. But it's Gaspar, the friendly ghost, who occasionally takes center stage as the leading spirit in the building.

"He'll tap you on the shoulder," says owner Adam Sanchez, who owns the restaurant with Ann Zyburra. Gaspar was bartender at The Milias for 45 years—and he's not the only spirit who has stuck around.

"There are a number of them," explains Ann, launching into tales of the spirit world. "So when I come into the building for work every morning, I say hello to Mr. Milias," the famed Gilroy businessman and civic leader who built the then-lavish restaurant/hotel in 1922, and whose portrait hangs on the wall.

The Milias Restaurant

Then she visits the kitchen to greet the resident chef spirit. There's also a little girl, a cowboy, and a young man who roam the building and make occasional contact with owners, staff and patrons.

A local medium reassured the somewhat anxious owners that the ghosts are"all very happy. They're content with what you're doing."

Whether it's a bowl of Spicy Roasted Mussels, a plate of Braised Beef Short Ribs, or Adam's famous Manhattan cocktail, the aim is always to keep the customer's spirits happy. Apparently, Adam and Ann are doing an out-of-this-world job.

FOLLOW THE SANTA CLARA VALLEY WINE TRAIL

Wine tasting in Santa Clara Valley is one of California's best-kept secrets…but it might not stay that way for long!

Gilroy's wineries, family-owned and friendly since the turn of the century, have really taken off in the last decade. Awards pile up like grapes in a harvest bin—dozens and dozens in the most prestigious competitions like the San Francisco Chronicle's annual event, the largest competition for American wines in the world.

Twice-a-year Passport Weekends, when wineries open the floodgates with food, entertainment, and barrel tastings, attract thousands of wine lovers every spring and fall. Wayfinding signs along the Santa Clara Valley Wine Trail guide motorists through the countryside to over 25 local wineries and tasting rooms.

"The value, the experience, and the tasting room sensation is so down to earth," says Vic Vanni, owner of Solis Winery. "Traffic isn't an issue here. The owners and the winemakers are often around, so it's a personable experience. And the wines just keep getting better. We all really feel that positive momentum."

Diversity adds to that momentum, and there's plenty along the trail. Clos la Chance is a statuesque hillside property straddling the Rosewood CordeValle resort, and just down Watsonville Road is Aver Family Vineyards, a small boutique winery. Other longtime favorites include Fortino Winery, Hecker Pass Winery, and Sarah's Vineyard, which hosts live music under the stars every Friday night during the summer.

Frost dusts the vines in a mountain setting just a few miles down the trail—but in a sense a world away. Bucolic Martin Ranch Winery is nestled on Redwood Retreat Road, and the address fits perfectly. The winery is homey and welcoming, and includes a restful picnic area with tables overlooking the vineyard.

Kirigin Cellars is the region's oldest winery and celebrated its centennial anniversary in 2016. Its rustic history has been blended with the contemporary vision of proprietor Dhruv Khanna, who purchased the winery in 2000. While the historic buildings remain, a steady stream of high-end improvements include a spacious wood-and-wine-barrel tasting room, a 7,000 square foot Tuscan-style clubhouse that can comfortably accommodate 200 guests and—surprise!—soccer and cricket fields for youth sports clubs.

Stop by the Gilroy Welcome Center or download a copy of the Wine Trail Map at visitgilroy.com to start planning your own tasting tour!

TEE TIME!

Plenty of variety at affordable rates

When it comes to golf in Gilroy, you'll find there are plenty of options for players at any level.

"Golfers can play a wide range of golf in a very close proximity," says PGA professional Don DeLorenzo, who manages both the Gilroy and Gavilan courses. "It's a wonderful area because there are courses for all skill levels, and at very affordable rates," Delorenzo says.

Gilroy Golf Course, dubbed the "best 11-hole course in the United States" was built in 1923 and is the oldest golf course in Santa Clara County. With budget-friendly green fees, it's the perfect place for beginners to learn or duffers to sharpen their iron play. Basically, on the back nine, you play seven of the same holes you played the first time around (but from different lengths and angles), plus two different holes. On the signature par-3 8th hole, the tee box is perched 100 feet above the green, yielding stunning vistas of the valley below.

Just a few miles north at Gavilan Golf Course, golf gets even more affordable at a course situated on the Gavilan College campus. Green fees max out at $22 per round, making it the perfect place for beginners to learn or duffers to sharpen their iron play. Gavilan also hosts the latest incarnation of the game: FootGolf, played with a soccer ball to holes cut off the regular greens.

Right in between the Gilroy and Gavilan courses is a premier public course, Eagle Ridge Golf Club. It measures 6,655 yards from the blue tees (one of seven tee stations) and travels through Gilroy's oak-studded foothills. Tree-lined, swelling fairways lead to multi-tiered greens that are protected by dramatic bunkering, a scattering of rocks, and diverse water features. The layout is sprinkled with 92 bunkers, three lakes on two holes, and creeks on seven holes, and it remains a fair-minded test to a variety of challengers.

Within a 30-minute drive from Gilroy are a handful of other championship courses, including the acclaimed Rosewood CordeValle Golf Club and Resort (which hosted the 2016 U.S. Women's Open) and San Juan Oaks, a Fred Couples Signature Design course.

EXPLORE THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Open spaces and recreational choices abound

Whether it's walking, cycling, backpacking, boating, birding, camping, horseback riding, golfing, fishing, running, or just taking the kids to a fun park playground, enjoying the great outdoors in Gilroy is a cinch.

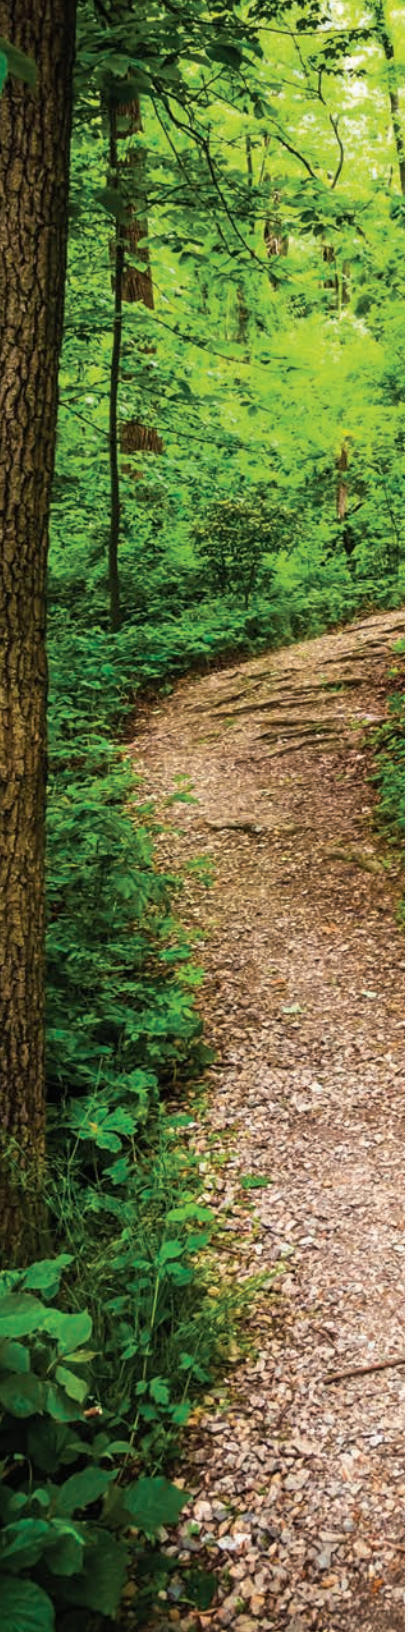
Take Coyote Lake-Harvey Bear Ranch, for example. The looping Martin Murphy Trail at the east end of San Martin Avenue off U.S. 101 is perfect for a mostly level 2-mile walk or run at your own pace. If you're up for a more serious trek, veer off and head for one of the many trails that hike over the hill to Coyote Lake, a playground for fishermen, campers, water skiers, and boaters.

Heading just a few miles west from town up scenic Hecker Pass Highway, there are hiking and horseback riding options galore at Mount Madonna County Park, one of the most popular camping destinations in Santa Clara County. The vast 3,688-acre park features towering redwoods, a herd of rare white fallow deer, and scenic vistas both east to the valley and west to the ocean.

For a little variety and a history lesson, head for Chitactac-Adams Heritage County Park. Follow the self-guided interpretive walk and discover bedrock mortars and petroglyphs left by the Ohlone Indians who once made their home here.

For even grander adventures, there's Northern California's largest state park, 87,000-acre Henry Coe State Park, an oasis for mountain bikers, backpackers, campers, hikers, fisherman and horseback riders. And America's newest national park, Pinnacles National Park, is just an hour's drive from Gilroy, with incredible massive monoliths, sheer-walled canyons, and talus caves.

Whatever outdoor experience you're seeking, Gilroy's got it!



5 FUN TRAILS

1. MUMMY MOUNTAIN TRAIL

   Enjoy old oaks and scenic vistas along a 3+ mile loop with a couple of choices at a fork in the trail. Hikers only.

2. SPRIG LAKE LOOP
   at Mt. Madonna County Park

   The 4+ mile loop is uphill to the top of the grassland and chaparral-covered hills, then loops downhill. Find the picnic table under an ancient oak near the top for a wonderful lunch stop.

3. UVAS CREEK LEVEE TRAIL
   in City of Gilroy Uvas Park Preserve

   This popular 2+ mile urban trail is entirely paved and suitable for everyone from serious runners to casual strollers. Clear your mind while you get those steps in!

4. WATERFALL LOOP
   at Uvas Canyon County Park

   Best enjoyed in the spring when Swanson Creek is running and the falls are gushing. Follow the self-guided nature trail for the lushly wooded 1-mile loop to the main waterfall.

5. COYOTE RIDGE TRAIL
   in Coyote Lake-Harvey Bear Ranch County Park

   Hike through rare blue oak woodlands up to the ridge and enjoy marvelous views of the lake and surrounding foothills.

CELEBRATE THE HARVEST

LJB FARMS

At the busy LJB Farms roadside stand, customers hover over three-foot deep wooden bins filled with fresh-plucked corn from adjacent fields.

"Picked that day," Judy Bonino says of the corn. "That's what we pride ourselves on."

It's been more than 40 years since Judy and Louie Bonino put down roots on Masten Avenue, and nearly 100 years since Louie's grandfather, Luigi, purchased the 600-acre ranch northeast of town that is still part of the family's agricultural operation. Gone are the days when miles of fruit orchards dominated the landscape, yet LJB Farms is still thriving.

Locals and visitors stop by for juicy Italian and beefsteak tomatoes, fresh off the vines. Colorful peppers, squash, cherries, grapes, and berries dot the aisles. And a vintage-inspired gift shop in the barn includes locally-produced honey, colorful aprons, and plenty of Gilroy garlic. Open from April through Christmas Eve, this farmstand is truly a local treasure.

CASA de FRUTA

This family-owned business began as a roadside cherry stand and has blossomed into one of California's leading tourist attractions.

Partner Gene Zanger grew up doing everything at Casa de Fruta from laying bricks to busing tables at the restaurant, and he says many of his fondest family memories were created there. Thanks to a fabulous location and the Zanger family's stewardship, Casa de Fruta now attracts a stunning 2 million-plus visitors each year.

"What you see here now is a 50-year evolution," says Zanger. Evolution—and plenty of expansion. Nestled in the 80-acre resort are myriad attractions, including a train ride with a nostalgic "choo-choo" whistle, a deli, a 24-hour restaurant, an expansive playground, an RV park, motel, 16,000 square feet of retail space, and a wine tasting room.

Annual events add to the draw, such as the Northern California Renaissance Faire, a stay-over New Year's Eve party, Reunion Dance, and Pumpkin Junction.

"It's a landmark for people traveling in the area," says Zanger, who gets thousands of visitors every year who remember stopping there as children. "It's just magic."

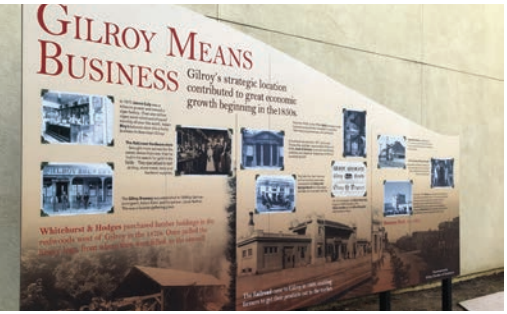
TAKE A STROLL BACK IN TIME

New Historic Paseo brings Gilroy's past to life

Today Gilroy is celebrated as the Garlic Capital of the World, but did you know that back in the 1850s, the town was known as the Hay and Grain Capital? And then, in the 1920s, it was considered the Prune Capital?

The times have certainly changed over the years, and today visitors can take a short walk through Gilroy's fascinating history. The Gilroy Historic Paseo is a pathway that conveniently connects the shops and restaurants on Monterey Street with adjacent free parking lots. As you stroll through the paseo, take a moment to look at the historic murals and learn more about the city's storied past.



Each panel covers a segment of Gilroy's history, from the Early Settlers and the roots of Agriculture through The Cowboy Era and the growth of Commerce and Hospitality. You also can learn all about Garlic and the diverse group of people who have come together to become "The Community with a Spice for Life"!

The Gilroy Historic Paseo is located on Monterey Street between Fifth and Sixth Streets in downtown Gilroy.

HIT THE ROAD!

Gilroy makes a great "home base" to explore other Northern California attractions

You just can't beat California for sunshine, natural beauty, and exciting attractions. But staying in the most popular tourist areas means dealing with crowds, traffic—and high prices. To enjoy all the best that California has to offer without busting your budget, just book a hotel room in Gilroy—and then follow your taste for adventure as you explore the San Francisco Bay Area and Central Coast!

Gilroy's central location at the crossroads of Northern California means you can settle down here for a few days and then take mini-road trips to popular nearby attractions.

Within a one-hour drive from Gilroy, you can:

- Leave Your Heart in San Francisco
  Union Square – Ghirardelli Square – Golden Gate Bridge – Pier 39 – Alcatraz
- Hit the Beach!
  Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk – Monterey Bay Aquarium – Cannery Row – Carmel-by-the-Sea
- Geek Out in Silicon Valley
  Children's Discovery Museum – Tech Museum of Innovation – Winchester Mystery House – Great America Theme Park – Levi's Stadium

Get your California sunshine with a little extra spice! Plan your Gilroy getaway today at VisitGilroy.com.
